

Gayle McPherson

Advice I received from Steve last winter:

"I have some advice for you: Never let a man beat you."

On the next two, when Steve said "I have some advice for you", I thought he was about to give me some monumentally important gem of wisdom:

"I have some advice for you... Whenever you're cooking pork, always add plenty of salt."

"I have some advice for you... Whenever you're baking, always add more butter than you ever thought you'd need."

Another Steve'ism (a little off color!). This one was told to me as we lit one of the last cigars that Steve was to enjoy:

"Do you know what makes Cuban cigars so good? They're wrapped between the sweaty thighs of young Cuban virgins."

...I did not smoke a Cuban cigar with Steve!